HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

For the fiscal year ended May 31, 2024, the NEOS S&P 500® High Income ETF market value return was 15.76% and its net asset value (“NAV”) return was 15.79% compared to its reference index, the S&P 500® Index, which returned 28.19%. The Fund’s market value per share as of the market close of the last trading day of the reporting period was $49.58. We believe the Fund’s relative underperformance during the reporting period is attributable to the active short SPX Index ladder call strategy which prevented the underlying equity portfolio from fully participating with the market upside during the sharp rally in the S&P 500® Index for specific months.

MANAGED DISTRIBUTIONS

While the NEOS S&P 500® High Income ETF does not have a specific level of distribution, the Fund seeks to generate high monthly income in a tax efficient manner with the potential for equity appreciation in rising markets. During the period, 87% of the Fund's distributions were treated as return of capital and 4% were treated as capital gains. Distributions in excess of the Fund's current and accumulated earnings and profits are treated as a tax-free return of a shareholder's investment to the extent of the shareholders basis in the Funds shares, and generally as capital gain thereafter. A return of capital, which for tax purposes is treated as a return of a shareholder's investment, reduces a shareholder's basis in the Funds shares, thus reducing any loss or increasing any gain on a subsequent taxable disposition of Fund shares.
